Eleven o'clock in the evening
The rain was falling down
Wandering the streets at night, alone
You're hiding in a café
Having yourself a drink
Thinking about the quarreling at home

The words, he used against you, broke your heart in two
And took away the trust in the both of you

Chorus: Once there was love and reasons to go on
 But now it feels so empty, it seems all hope is gone
 Once there was understanding, but now it's all confused
 And all that you can think of is, you don't know what to do

When the sun comes up next morning
And you left the night behind
A tear betrays the sadness, deep inside
Turning the key, to unlock your front door
Wondering what to find
And all he left was just a little note with regrets about the fight

The note ends with the words, and it cuts like a knife
'For me, our love is over, goodbye'

Chorus: Once there was love and reasons to go on
 But now it feels so empty, it seems all hope is gone
 Once there was understanding, but now it's all confused
 And all that you can think of is, you don't know what to do

Chorus: Once there was love and reasons to go on
 But now it feels so empty, it seems all hope is gone
 Once there was understanding, but now it's all confused
 And all that you can think of is, you don't know what to do
 Oh, it's over, between the both of you
